

Dear Colleague,

I look forward to welcoming you in less than six weeks to our IDRC Davos 2010 conference, on 30 May - 3 June. If you have not yet registered I encourage you to do so soon to secure your place at the conference. I am pleased to announce two new outstanding Continuous Education Courses, created by our GRF Risk Academy. Additionally, please help us create a ranking of the world's most relevant risks and fill in our survey below.

Sincerely yours

Dr. Walter J. Ammann,
Chairman IDRC Davos 2010

2-Day Continuous Education Course "Reducing Risks and Managing Disasters - A Modern Integrated Approach"

This intensive two-day course with world renowned disaster and risk management experts will discuss trends, tendencies and new developments in risk reduction and disaster management (DRR) within the compass of the 'risk cycle'—prevention/mitigation, preparedness, emergency response, relief and recovery. The course integrates the technical, organisational and managerial aspects of DRR and explains how some of the latest advances in applied research can be used in the day-to-day practice of risk mitigation and disaster management

EU Project Development Workshop

The EU Project Development Training Course provides the IDRC DAVOS 2010 participants with the knowledge needed to successfully develop EU projects. Which focus on FP7 and CIP proposals. It will explore the fields of risk reduction, risk governance, environment and science in general. Participants will be guided through all the procedures of proposal development, from call identification to proposal submission, including budget preparation and other key issues.

Your opinion counts – please take part in our short GRF Davos Survey

With the survey below, GRF Davos would like to make a ranking of the world's most relevant risks. Global Risk Forum GRF Davos is conducting a series of surveys to gather individual opinions on various topics of common interest. The survey will allow GRF Davos to offer current information on relevant topics and serve to focus its activities. The results of each survey will be published on the GRF website. Your contribution will be highly appreciated.
